Spotlight On Scholarship

Throughout the year we will host a series of presentations to recognize professional achievement in scholarship and to celebrate the rich diversity and talents of our colleagues.

This Spotlight on Scholarship features

Megan Wilkerson
Assistant Professor of Communication, Media, & Theatre

“Through the Eyes of a Scenic Designer:
Process, Creativity, and Performance”

Have you ever attended live theatre and admired or been intrigued by the set design? Have you ever wondered how the scenic designer moves from the text to the creation of the set or how a set is designed and constructed? Have you read the titles "Set Designer" and "Scene Designer" in the theatre program and imagined what that kind of work entails? If you have, this is your chance to learn more about the role of the Scenic Designer in live theatre. Through examples from her own professional work, Professor Wilkerson will discuss the job of the Scenic Designer in the theatre from a first reading of the script through opening night.

Wednesday, February 8, 2006
