“Reimagining the Honors Program”

Friday, February 19, 2010

3:00 - 4:30 p.m.

Union Shield Room

Our Honors program was originally created as a more rigorous version of our General Education Program: it offered smaller classes, special readings, great conversation--and lots of scheduling problems! The Program is now under renovation (hard-hats recommended!) and the Director, Faculty Honors Committee, and Student Honors Council are working hard to incorporate high-impact learning practices into the Program. We have already established a living-learning Honors community in Bergstrom Hall and a common course for incoming Honors students. Come ready to learn about our plans for the Honors program, but also to share ideas and volunteer some help! We will be discussing tutorials, faculty-student collaboration, and service-learning.

The presentation and discussion will be led by Marcie Paul, Director of the Honors Program, and Associate Professor of Spanish.
