

The Office of Faculty Development Presents

A series of workshops dedicated to promoting an exchange of ideas about teaching and learning.

“Into the Streets: Academic Service-Learning and Community Based Learning at SNC” Friday, February 20 3:00 - 4:30 p.m. Union 101 B

Is service-learning a fad or a legitimate pedagogy? Why would faculty choose to use this teaching/learning method? Does it mean we have to give students grades or credit for picking up trash in the neighborhood? How much extra time is involved? How does it benefit students? Faculty? The community? Is it a fluffy addition to a course? An easy “A?” This workshop will provide answers to these questions. We’ll discuss what service-learning is (and isn’t); how to decide whether it would work for a course you teach; and how to design the course with a service-learning component. Resource materials will be provided.

Bobbi Timberlake, Founding Director of the Service-Learning Program at Marquette University

Deirdre Egan, Assistant Professor of English & Director of American Studies

Wendy Scattergood, Assistant Professor of Political Science

Larry Scheich, Professor of Chemistry & Associate Dean of Natural Science